AN EVENT TO INTRODUCE WOMEN TO THE OPPORTUNITIES OF A CONSULTING CAREER

Curious about consulting, but not sure what it really is? Interested in working for a fast-growing company in a dynamic, team-oriented environment? Looking to be challenged whilst receiving strong developmental support? Want to better understand how you can balance a rewarding career with some of the choices we face as women?

If you are a female student, from any background and want to know the answers to these questions and more, join BCG in the Darwin Room, The Pitt Building, on Monday 15th June. After a brief introduction to consulting and how women at BCG have chartered their own course, we invite you to meet some of our women from all levels. Drinks and nibbles and a relaxed atmosphere are part of the package, absolutely no business experience is required!

If you are interested, please click here: <http://careers.bcg.com/join/on-campus/cambridge-university.aspx>, where you will have the opportunity to register your attendance for one of two sessions.

We look forward to meeting you at the event,

_The BCG Women’s Initiative Team_

Earn up to £17.50 for Attention and Distraction Study (2-2.5 hours)

The MRC Cognition and Brain Sciences Unit is recruiting participants for an attention and distraction study. You will perform a computer-based task that involves focusing attention on some words while ignoring other distracting words. The task will take around 2-2.5 hours.

To be eligible to participate, you should be a native English speaker aged 18-50 years with normal/normal-corrected vision. You should not be colour blind or have learning/language/attention deficits or any other psychological or neurological impairments.

If you are interested in participating or need further information, please contact yuhua.guo@mrc-cbu.cam.ac.uk.

Alternatively, you can register and sign up on SONA: <https://mrc-cbu.sona-systems.com/>
