JCR Pillaged By Barbarians

The door to the Small Council meeting room swung open, and then slammed shut with an almost inconceivably deafening bang.

“Corbyn’s beard!” King Alex bellowed, as he surveyed the ruins of the once great meeting room. “There is no curse in Entish, Welfareish or the tongues of Target and Access for this treachery!”

It was a grim sight. The bodies of pool cues lay broken and decapitated across the floor. The table football was still standing but only just—one of its feet had been taken clean off, and someone had pinched its balls. And what few riches had been left in the room—the bookshelf; the game of Cards Against Humanity and its expansion pack—were gone without a trace.

The King shed a bitter tear as his Small Council looked on, searching for words of comfort but finding only sorrow. Finally, with a heavy sigh, the King spoke.

“There was a time when I had faith in the fundamental goodness of men. There was a time when I believed that we could leave a sacred room unguarded without fear of it being attacked. That time has passed. Today, my patience runs out. I will replace what has been lost once more but only once. If further damage is done, so be it.”

Small Council to Banish Ghost of Fitzmas Past

The Small Council meeting room has long been haunted by a creature moste evile: the ghost of Fitzmas past. A lesser council might have accepted this as a regrettable necessity, but not the 2015 team, who have hired famed ghost-hunter Rob Clarke to rid them of this pesky fiend.

The exorcism will take place in a few weeks time and all citizens of Fitzeros are invited to take part. They will be allowed to submit their names in an electronic lottery with one friend. Lottery winners will be able to attend the Fitzmas banquets. The painlessness of the process will rid us of the ghost once and for all.

A Clash of Kings

It is the beginning of the end for this year’s Small Council.

After a long and glorious year of improving the lives of their citizens, our esteemed councillors are getting ready to stand down from their positions of power and pass the baton on to a fresh new committee.

While they do not expect the new prospective Kings to start rallying their troops for battle just yet, it is never too early to start planning campaign strategy to try and assemble the biggest army when the time comes.

As for the other positions on the Council, there can surely be no greater excitement than that surrounding the position of Master of Whispers—the person who will take up the mantle of editing the prestigious publication that is the ‘Billy Bulletin’. Some have even suggested that this role is more important than that of the monarch, given the Bulletin’s enormous readership and reach.

In all events, there will be thrills, spills and more drama than you could possibly imagine in the coming weeks.

What a time to be alive.

Auditions for 'Iolanthe'

Auditions for the CUG&S Society's production of 'Iolanthe' will be taking place next week. The show will be at West Road Concert Hall from 3rd to 6th February. It is the society's largest Cambridge production of the year at one of the largest student venues in Cambridge. The show centres around the conflict between a bunch of mischievous fairies and a troupe of Lords as they attempt to woo the beautiful Phyllis. She, however, is already in love with the half-man, half-fairy, Strephon and when the pompous lords break up the couple the fairies vow revenge.

To audition for this magical show, please sign up for a slot here: <http://doodle.com/poll/vfzivp6zinvuyfig>

Auditions will last 10 minutes and we would like you to prepare a solo song in a similar style to Gilbert and Sullivan. An accompanist will be provided, as will vocal scores of all the G&S operettas. There will also be extracts of dialogue available on the door which you will be asked to prepare. All auditions will be held in the Selwyn College Choir Vestry at the following times:

Saturday 24th October - 12-2pm and 6-8pm

Monday 26th October - 8-10pm

Wednesday 28th October - 7:30-10pm
