Speakeasy—Poetry Night

Following our last sold-out extravaganza, Speakeasy is BACK at the ADC Bar on Sunday November 1st, with brilliant feature poets (including the wonderful Amber-page Moss) and the return of the open slam!

Anyone can sign up to read 3 minutes of their own poetry in the slam, and compete to win honour, glory, and a performance slot at a future Speakeasy!

If you usually love poetry, if you usually hate poetry, if you've never heard of performance poetry or spoken word before but fancy giving it a go (/being entertained while having a drink in the ADC Bar), come along! Have a drink, have a listen, if you want to perform get up and speak - it's easy!

// 8pm // Sunday 1st November //
ADC Theatre Bar

Free online ticket booking:

Christ's Films

The Room – Halloween Special – Saturday 31st October - 9pm.

Running time: 99 mins

Don't be scared by the terrifying acting! Join us for our annual showing of the cult classic The Room!

Johnny (Tommy Wiseau (Producer, Director, Writer and Star)) has everything, a beautiful fiancée, nice house and a good job. But that's all about to change when Lisa (Juliette Danielle) becomes dissatisfied with their life. Can the two make it through the hardships? Or will the increasingly bizarre plot and questionable dialogue be too much for them to bear? Find out at our annual screening of this cult classic. "YOU'RE TEARING ME APART LISA!"

Fitz hit by déjà-vu outbreak

- Students warned that there's a glitch in the Matrix
- Experts say they've seen this before

Rita Skeeter, special correspondent

Students at the University of Hogwarts are reporting a disturbing phenomenon: a sense of déjà-vu. Many students claim to have experienced a feeling of familiarity when entering the castle, as if they had been there before. Some even report seeing familiar faces and places, leading to confusion and disorientation. Experts are warning that this could be a sign of a glitch in the Matrix, a concept popularized by the 2003 film The Matrix. The film's director, the Wachowskis, described the Matrix as a simulated reality that traps its inhabitants in a cycle of events that they have already lived through. This theory is gaining traction among students who are struggling to understand the strange occurrences they are experiencing.

The phenomenon is being reported by students from various faculties, including the Faculty of Arts, the Faculty of Sciences, and the Faculty of Business. Some students are reporting that they have seen the same faces in their dreams, while others are reporting that they have seen the same faces in their waking lives. This has led to a sense of paranoia and fear among the student body. The University's medical staff is currently investigating the reports, but they have not yet identified a cause for the phenomenon. Psychology Experiment

I am a PhD student currently carrying out an experiment in the Department of Psychology and I'm looking for participants who will each be paid £4. The study will involve you watching a video clip and will take roughly 20 minutes, during which your eye movements will be recorded.

It will take place in room 103 of the Psychology Department on the Downing Site.

The video recordings of your eye and head movements will be accessible only to the immediate research team. If interested please contact me by email: Rachel Crosby, rnc75@cam.ac.uk

Oxbridge Academy Courses

Looking to earn £60 for a little of your time? Help students prepare for their Oxbridge interviews over a weekend late in November.

Oxbridge Academy Courses are looking to build a small team of mentors for a half day session with some secondary school Oxbridge applicants focusing on interview preparation and preparing them for life at university. We're looking to recruit undergraduates with a keen understanding of the interview process to help prepare these students. Your time commitment would be an hour-long content creation session, an hour-long training session, both of which are flexible in terms of dates, and a half day's working with the students from 2.30pm - 6pm on a weekend towards the end of November. The only requirement for application is that you are an undergraduate student, 1st years preferable in one of the following subjects. The subjects are:

Economics
English and German
Music
Biochemistry
Chemical Engineering
Mathematics
Law
HPS
Medicine
Linguistics
History

If you meet the requirements and are interested in applying, please draft a brief description of yourself (subject year, college, subject*) a photo, a description/ breakdown of your Cambridge interview experience and any experience you have mentoring young people and send it to eli@oxbridgeacademycourses.com before the 7th November 2015. Mentors will be recruited on a rolling basis so please do not delay.

Looking forward to hearing from you!

Charity Apprentices

Make changing the world your day job.

Become a Charity Apprentice.

One intense year. A lifetime of satisfaction. Just 50 places. Make one of them yours.

Charity Apprentice from Child.org is a course for anyone dreaming of a rewarding career in the charity sector to complete in their spare time. The part-time online course incorporates real-life challenges and trains you in the practical skills and experience that you need to bag a dream job in the competitive charity workplace.

Online learning

Complete learning tasks, dial in to seminars and discuss ideas with your fellow apprentices.

Real life challenges

Build a wealth of practical experience. You'll run your own fundraising campaign, pitch real fundraising products to companies and start your own social enterprise.

Social change on the ground

Get a once in a lifetime chance to work in the field with a 4-week placement at one of Child.org's projects in Kenya or Uganda.

You'll learn about how the charity works with local partners to deliver sustainable programmes and affect real change, by working on valuable projects tailored to your own skills and experience.

This year, for the first time, two lucky applicants to Charity Apprentice will gain access to the course for free, including a four week work placement in Kenya or Uganda. The scholarships will be available to two people who can demonstrate their commitment, have an entrepreneurial spirit and are self-starters with a passion for the charity sector and international development.

Applications will be open in November. To apply, hopefuls should register their interest at charityapprentice.org and will receive an email when applications are open. For further details, please contact hello@charityapprentice.org.
