Careers

Careers in the Civil Service, management consultancy and the third sector

Your perfect career – does volunteering help you get there?

Come and find out about your future career in the Civil Service, management consultancy and the third sector.

When: 7pm, 23rd January

Where: Latimer Room, Clare College Old Court

Event page: <https://www.facebook.com/events/809883372474632/>

Our three panel members from the FCO, Deloitte and the charity sector will talk about their journeys into their current careers and the role of volunteering within this. They will also provide careers guidance and an insight into their day-to-day life in their current job. This will be followed by a Q&A session, and then a more general informal chit-chat. Drinks and nibbles will be provided.

THE SPEAKERS:

Jenny read undergraduate History and a Masters degree in International Relations at Cambridge University. She is currently working at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office. She has recently returned from a Posting working as a diplomat in Cairo, Egypt, and is soon to be posted to Kabul, Afghanistan where she will be the Embassy's Persian-speaking Head of Press. Jenny has also worked as Nigeria Policy Officer, covering counter terrorism and Boko Haram. Previously she worked in the FCO's Middle East and North Africa Security Team, covering the evacuation of the Libyan and Yemini Embassies.

Luke read MML, and is now a Manager at Deloitte, within the Consulting practice. Luke specialises in supporting organisations within the Public Sector to transform the way they operate driven by financial, political and efficiency pressures. He has also volunteered with EPAfrica over the last ten years and has used this experience to help his career progression.

Jessica studied undergraduate Geography at Cambridge University. She currently works for The Scout Association as an Operations Adviser for Adult Training. Her role is to help adult volunteers in undertaking their roles through producing and supporting the delivery of training within the Movement. Jessica has volunteered with EPAfrica for the past 4 years and is currently a member of the charity's Management Committee. The skills and experiences she has gained from volunteering with EPAfrica have been instrumental in the progression of her career.

CamExpress Education Consultancy Part-time Teacher Recruitment at £30 per hour

CamExpress was established in Shanghai and London in 2009 (Camexpress Co., Ltd. UK Registered 06932043). The company is committed to providing Chinese students with the world's top university application mentoring and consulting services.

In 2015, CamExpress set up Cambridge branch, which is mainly responsible for Oxbridge university application course design and one-to-one mentoring. We are looking for intelligent and passionate people to join our growing business. Part-time teaching typically involves one-to-one online teaching for about 1 to 2 hours a week. We will provide each employee with benefits including competitive salary, about £30 per hour (PhD student £40) and potential finance or banking summer internship opportunities in Shanghai, China.

Any discipline and degree type is welcomed but excellent academic track record and good communication skills would be an advantage.

If you are interested, we warmly invite you to fill up the application form at <https://docs.google.com/a/vjc.sg/forms/d/14w6iHIIITuHWESCI3je-oixewWuOzNUuNyUUyTgDdXnk/viewform> and our recruitment team will contact you shortly. If you have any questions, please feel free to drop Yolanda (kq208@cam.ac.uk) an email and she will be happy to help out.

Medics

Magdalene Medical Society's Speaker Events

Magdalene Medical Society invites you to their speaker events this Lent term. These events are planned to be accessible and beneficial to Pre-clinical and Clinical students, and are free with nibbles provided! Details on speakers, topics and sign-up information are on the Facebook event pages.

The University Modern Pentathlon Club

Have you ever tried Fencing? Or Pistol Shooting? Why not give it a go in on Sunday 24th January. The Cambridge University Modern Pentathlon Club (CUMPC) will be hosting a friendly competition in Cambridge, and we will warmly welcome all those that fancy giving it a go. All you need is enthusiasm, we will provide the rest.

The competition will consist of a fencing competition (we will provide kit and basic coaching at the start). Combined event, which will essentially be 3x 1km run with 70s rest inbetween each rep. The day will end with a 200m Freestyle swim. We welcome people who may just want to try one phase, or even give the whole day a bash. What's the harm in giving it a go?

The plan for Sunday is:
Fence 8:30-10:30am at the University Sports centre
Combined Event (Run and Shoot): between 11 and 2pm
Swim: 3-5pm at Abbey Pools

If you are interested, please email either Anthony Shillito (as2195) or Hannah Clifford (hfc34). If you really want to give Modern Pentathlon a go, but just can't make Sunday just drop us an email to find out more about our training.

More info can be found on our website: <https://cumpc.soc.srcf.net/>

Student Minds Cambridge College Rep

STUDENT MINDS CAMBRIDGE NEEDS YOU!

Want a low commitment role that looks great on your CV?

We are looking for college reps from each year to help us raise awareness about mental health.

As a college rep, your main role will be to publicise SMC events in college, and to be a point of contact between the SMC committee and the welfare officers and staff in your college. We will also hold termly college rep meetings, where we can discuss ideas on how best to promote mental health in your college. For more details see the attached poster.

It's a low commitment role that is really effective and essential for raising awareness about such an important issue. To apply, please email Alisha Burman (arb95), with your full name, crsID, college, year group and a sentence on why you'd like to be a rep by Wednesday 27th January.

Entertainment

Ex Machina

Saturday 16th January – 9pm

Running time: 108 mins

When programmer Caleb (Domnhall Gleeson) wins a mysterious competition at his company, he is taken to the secluded home of his boss Nathan (Oscar Isaac). Upon arrival, he discovers that his boss has created the world's first artificially intelligent robot, named Ava (Alicia Vikander). Caleb's task is to test Ava's humanity, however as their relationship advances, it is unclear who's in charge.

Nominated for an Oscar for Best Writing and Visual effects, do not miss this!
